What is a Season?

A Season is a date-based categorisation by which you can categorise members, products, age groups, and more. For example, a Season could be defined by calendar year (I.e. 2023) or in smaller groupings (I.e. 2023 Winter and 2023 Summer).

Your Seasons should reflect the periods of time that your organisation operates from a membership perspective, as defining your Seasons early unlocks a range of customisation, reporting, and behavioural functionality in GameDay.

What is an Age Group?

GameDay allows administrators to create custom Age Groups to automatically categorise members according to their date of birth.

In short, Age Groups can be created and assigned to Seasons, which in turn are assigned to Products and attached to registration forms. This three-tiered linkage ensures that:

- a) The date of birth ranges that determine which Age Group a member is assigned to are based on specific Seasons, so that Age Groups can continue to be re-assigned to future Seasons as date of birth eligibility changes
- b) Seasons can be future-proofed to ensure that Age Groups are attached with the relevant date of birth range ahead of time

Setting up accurate Age Groups per season provides a range of additional benefits for navigating and understanding the data within your GameDay database:

- Seasons and Age Groups can be used as a filter on your Member List

- Seasons and Age Groups can be seen for individual member records via the Membership tab
